Quarterly Update – Q4 2023

Investment Strategy

Wolske Wealth Management LLC ("WWM") is a short-term quantitative, systematic investment manager dedicated to innovative research. Wolske Wealth Cayman Fund LP, WWM's flagship fund, has been in operation since January 2023 but has not been registered for external investor.

The investment program targets absolute return and zero correlation to the S&P 500. The program integrates several unique mathematical and modeling approaches that are not often seen in quantitative finance and systematically applies these techniques to financial instruments.

The program generates near-term signals of market factors that result in a 24-hour view of price movements. The portfolio is continuously invested in highly liquid US equities, bonds, futures, options and CFDs.

WWM's approach to risk management begins with a strong view that a tail event will happen in the near term, either globally or within a factor, industry, or company. Since they often fail in extreme market conditions, WWM does not use many traditional techniques, such as sample covariance matrices or stop-loss orders. Instead, WWM extracts hedges embedded in the generated signals to construct a portfolio that aims to increase alpha and reduce risk.

Wolske Wealth Management

Strategy and Portfolio Construction

- WWM's investment methodology is governed by rigorous scientific discipline, focus on data-driven analysis with advanced mathematical models and a focus on tail risk. WWM's goal is to remove the human bias completely through our systematic strategies.
- Risk management begins upstream by utilizing signals embedded with constantly updating relational information of many market factors. WWM believes position concentration and leverage limits and enforced diversification mitigate excessive industry or factor concentration.
- In constructing our unique portfolio, WWM's strategy does not assume that many traditional techniques will necessarily hold in the future, particularly when market conditions become stressed.
- The portfolio is continually adjusted and rebalanced throughout the day. Our typical portfolio turnover is 1 to 2 weeks. We do not seek intraday "in-and-out" trades.
- Our investment strategy uses a carefully curated, proprietary database and many models that continually ingest and evaluate a large amount of market data. The flexible infrastructure was built for continual research and scale.
- WWM's strategy is not dependent on a view of market direction, the economy, an industry, or a company. Our aim is to calculate repeatedly the probabilities of idiosyncratic changes for individual securities and expects to express these calculations over many securities and time periods.

Founding Principles

WWM was founded under a firm belief that its modeling and portfolio construction methodologies are unique. It believes it will produce attractive risk-adjusted returns that have a low correlation to both market indices and similar strategies. WWM was also founded under a conviction that curiosity, discipline, passion, integrity and humility are drivers of success and differentiation.
